

Prof. Georgia Vrioni MD, PhD, FECMM

Department of Microbiology, Medical School,
National and Kapodistrian University of Athens, Athens, Greece

Georgia Vrioni, MD, PhD, FECMM, is Professor of Medical Microbiology, in the Department of Microbiology at the Medical School, National and Kapodistrian University of Athens, Greece. Her main fields of interest and research are molecular microbiology, antimicrobial resistance mechanisms in Gram negative bacteria and fungi, and detection and identification of fungal, bacterial and viral pathogens in clinical samples.

Prof. G. Vrioni is the scientific supervisor: (a) Mycology Unit and (b) Quality Control Unit of Microbiological Analysis in Microbiology Department, Medical School, National and Kapodistrian University of Athens (Head Prof. A. Tsakris). She has been member of the Organizing Committee of various Congresses, Workshops and Seminar. She has been invited speaker in more than 150 Seminars, Congresses, Scientific Meetings, Symposia, Workshops and Courses. She has active participation in the Advisory Board of Hellenic Society for Microbiology since 2007 and of the Hellenic Society of Medical Mycology (HSoMM) since 2008 (President of HSoMM since 2021 and local organizer of Trends in Medical Mycology – 2023). She has 106 full publications in SCI journals (PubMed, December 2023) with 2.381 citations covered by Scopus, h- index 27 and 3.200 citations covered by Google Scholar, h-index 30 and i10-index 49 (December 2023), more than 500 abstracts presented in International and Hellenic Congresses and 75 full publications in Hellenic Scientific Journals.